

100 Days of DANTE

Frequently Asked Questions

What is 100 Days of Dante?

100 Days of Dante is (we hope) the world's largest virtual reading group of Dante's Divine Comedy, a chance for new and old readers alike to journey together through an incredible poem.

Why read with 100 Days of Dante?

When you join the 100 Days of Dante project, you get access to a unique, 7–10-minute video introducing each canto, featuring an experienced Dante teacher. Our canto guides will help us think gain insight into the text and inspire our own question-asking and reflection.

How do I join a reading group?

While we can't coordinate reading groups across such a wide geography (we are a small team!) we hope that you will meet each other and form groups on your own. Check out our Facebook, Instagram, and Twitter for places to meet folks, or start your own group at your local church, library, or bookshop!

How much do we read every day?

Our calendar plans for 3 cantos per week. We will release videos on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday. You can read and then watch or watch and then read – it's up to you!

When does it end?

Based on the 3 canto/week schedule, we should be ending on Easter Weekend of 2022 (very fitting for Dante, as we will discover)

When do new videos come out?

New videos will come out on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday each week.

How do I access videos?

If you are subscribed to our email list, you'll get an email with a link to play the video right in your inbox when it is released. You can also access the videos and other content on our website, 100daysofdante.com or through the Baylor Honors College YouTube channel.

Can I go back and catch up?

Yes! We'll have the videos posted on our website and on YouTube, and if you start later, you can watch the videos that you've missed and join us where we are, anytime during the project.

Are there special events?

Yes! We will have a few different events throughout our time reading Dante together. The best way to stay tuned is to follow us on social media – just look for 100 Days of Dante on Twitter, Instagram, and Facebook.
